DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claim 4 is objected to because of the following informalities: The phrase “a plurality of said rectifying nets are provided and placed in the upstream side and the downstream side of the fluid flowing within said duct for said rectifying grid” is unclear and confusing. Examiner is determining the merits of the claim as though a plurality of rectifying nets, which are located in the downstream and upstream areas are claimed. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Christenson, US Patent 5,606,622. Christenson discloses an active noise control system in a duct 18 comprising noise detector 12, error detector 14, control sound source 16, arithmetic circuit 10, and rectifying part 20. As to claim 2, the rectifying part 20 comprises honeycomb section 24 (grid) and wire screen 28 or plate 22 (net). Per claim 3, it is taught in column 3 lines 32-56 that the honeycomb section removes weak swirls and the plate removes turbulence, thus the grid has an opening ratio greater than that of the net.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 2644

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Christenson.

Christenson does not disclose a plurality of rectifying nets provided in the upstream side and downstream side of the duct 18. Examiner takes Official Notice that it was obvious to locate a rectifying screen at the source of the noise in the duct with the advantage of increasing the coherence between the noise signal and the error signal picked up by the error detector. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to modify Christenson to have a rectifying net at the downstream side of the duct 18 for the purpose of improving the performance of noise control for sounds emitted from the downstream side.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Carne, US Patent Application Publication 2003/0053635; Hersh et al, US Patent 6,201,872.
